Saab signs long-term agreement for camouflage systems with the Netherlands

Saab has signed a long-term agreement with the Netherlands Ministry of Defence for the Barracuda Mobile Camouflage System. Saab has also received a first order within the agreement, with deliveries in the coming years.

The agreement, which runs over multiple years, enables the Netherlands to place orders and equip their vehicles with Saab's Barracuda Mobile Camouflage System.

"We are proud to support the Royal Netherlands Army with our advanced multispectral camouflage solutions, helping to protect its vehicle fleet from detection across the modern sensor spectrum, strengthening survivability and mobility on the battlefield," says Henning Robach, head of Saab's business unit Barracuda.

The initial order is for the Royal Netherlands Army's existing Fennek and Panzerhaubitze vehicles. The agreement also includes options to equip additional vehicle types in the future.

Saab's Barracuda Mobile Camouflage System is tailor-made for a perfect fit for any vehicle, with woodland, urban or arctic camouflage patterns and can be deployed in any environment.
